FIFTEEN CENTS

WARRANT CLOSES FRIDAY Special Town Meeting has thirteen articles to date

Thirteen articles are already being processed for the special town meeting of June 25th., called for Monday evening by the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. Two of the articles were submitted to the Board of Selectmen and eleven have come through the Planning Board or otherwise.

The Town Clerk is to receive articles submitted through Friday, to 4:30 pm at her office. Re-zoning articles are, as of this writing, no longer valid due to time limitations.

Wilmington's selectmen (four of them, Boylen being ill) were reluctant to call for a special town meeting. They had no alternative, there were 208 signatures in the petition, and 200 makes a Town Meeting mandatory. The signers asked for a Town Meeting before July 1, that being the date the tax rate must be set. They are petitioning for the purchase by the town of the third and last part of Alderwood Estates, in East Wilmington. There has been a controversial reaction because a new firm, the Drinkwater brothers, have acquired and are developing the property, in which there are drainage problems.

The reluctance of the Selectmen was two-fold. They know a special town meeting will soon be called for the purpose of voting for a new high school. The selectmen would rather combine the two meetings. Secondly the selectmen are not convinced as to the wisdom of purchasing the land, as called for in the article. Mr. Miceli was outspoken in his opposition.

The second article submitted to the Selectmen was by the publisher of the Town Crier. Capt. Neilson seeks to purchase a small piece of land from the town, so that there may be a "legal" frontage for the General Business zone in which the Town Crier office is located. The town meeting a couple of years ago, at the instance of the Planning Board, increased the "frontage" necessary for lots of land zoned for General Business. They seek to do the same thing for Neighborhood Business in the coming special town meeting.

The article was accepted by the selectmen by a three to one vote. Mr. Miceli insisted that the article was illegal. He was told several times that the selectmen have often accepted such articles for special town meetings, after they had been called for, but Miceli kept insisting it was illegal, right up to the vote.

Seven articles submitted to the selectmen by the Planning Board are for revisions of the zoning by-law, and are advertised in this issue, as are three rezoning articles.

An eighth article, submitted by the Planning Board asks again that the Town adopt the Official Map. Such an article was in the warrant for the annual Town Meeting, but was turned down by the voters.

Just before the meeting of the Planning Board was called to order, Tuesday night, Arthur Harding, chairman, remarked that "If the Town Meeting had not voted down the Official Map last spring there wouldn't be a crisis now. There wouldn't be a Drinkwater (real estate) development."

The three rezoning articles, also advertised in this weeks Town Crier, seek to rezone two parcels CUTTING THE 50 YEAR APPRECIATION CAKE: Harold Melzer and Clayton Buck, on May 20th were special guests at the Wilmington Lodge of Masons for their 50th anniversary meeting celebration. Mr. Melzer was celebrating his 50th anniversary as Master of the Lodge, and Mr. Buck his 50th year as a member. Mr. Melzer was also celebrating his 50th year as a member.

to General Business, and one parcel of land to Industrial.

The Planning Board seeks to rezone to Industrial all the land in Wilmington on the westerly side of Ballardvale Street not now zoned industrial, and northerly of the present industrial zone - a total of 11.38 acres, now zoned rural.

A second article submitted by the Planning Board, seeks to rezone some Neighborhood Business land northerly of Lowell Street Park into General Business.

The third article is submitted by Bernard Restuccia of Wilmington Ford, who seeks to rezone a parcel on the northerly side of Bridge Lane. Mr. Restuccia seeks to put in an office building there.

Rest Area Hearing next Wednesday

There is to be a hearing next Wednesday (June 13) at 1:30 pm in Room 443 of the State House, in Boston, on House Bill 6928.

6928 is the bill filed by Rep. Fred F. Cain to discontinue the operation and maintenance of a roadside rest area in Wilmington, adjacent to Interstate 93, northbound.

The hearing will be before the Committee on Transportation.

Three years in a row?

NOT BY THE
SOUTH WALL THIS TIME

Paul Morrice of Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington seems to have won the Town Crier (Mythical) Golden Pea Spoon award for the third year in a row. This year he predated his previous record of June 10th by four days, on June sixth.

In years past Paul grew his peas by the south wall of his house and people questioned if this was fair. Paul, in his honesty, decided to grow his peas in the middle of the garden this year.

On a 100 x 150 foot lot shared by his house, porch, garage, swimming pool and large front lawn Paul grows peas, carrots, tomatoes, lima beans, spinach, strawberries, apples, peaches, and the list goes on and on, including peanuts and some Sven Wiberg's Squinkins. All in all he has more than 35 different varieties of fruits and vegetables in his yard.

As for next year, says Paul "Any day in May will do."

PAUL MORRICE AND HIS PEAS: Picking on the sixth of June. He seems for the third time to win the Town Crier (mythical) Golden Pea Spoon award, given to the first gardener each year who has enough peas out of his back yard garden for a family meal.

TEWKSBURY TOWN MEETING Planning Board seeks to pay for maps

A special Tewksbury town meeting on June 25 will be asked to approve of three warrant articles, to provide zoning and wetland maps for the town, at a cost of $5500.

The Tewksbury Planning Board has voted unanimously to place the articles on the warrant, to provide for the maps, most of which are necessary because of the recent discovery that all available maps are in error.

One article would provide $2500 to prepare and update the town's zoning map under the direction of the planning board. Another would provide $3000 to pay for enough copies to distribute one with every copy of the town warrant sent out for the March 1974 town meeting. A third article would provide maps of the town's flood plains and conservancy districts.

Chairman Joseph Doherty said the town couldn't delay getting new zoning maps because the present ones are so inaccurate. He said after extensive study he determined the town hasn't had even fairly accurate maps since 1960.

Doherty reported his study of past maps and zoning articles approved by town meetings showed an incredible sequence of inaccuracies where zoning maps were concerned. He said the 1971 map, now being sold by the town clerk, listed nonexistent 7C industrial districts and business areas where they didn't exist.

After presenting a copy of the 1971 map to the board, Doherty commented, "I don't see how anyone can tell how the town is zoned at all."

The chairman said he, consulting engineer Lawrence Allen, and the board's clerk Susan Lumia, researched town zoning changes back to the original 1947 bylaw.

Doherty said only $2500 would be needed to prepare new maps because part of the work would be done by the board. Allen believes he can produce copies of a map within a month of town meeting approval. In addition to paying Allen for his work, the money would go to a research assistant to study all zoning actions ever made by the town, mostly rechecking work Doherty and others have already done.

The $3000, Doherty said, could be used to insure everyone who got a town warrant in 1974 also got a copy of the new zoning map. "Everybody should know how the town is zoned," he commented.

Planner John J. McCarthy questioned how many persons would actually study the maps if one went out with every warrant. Doherty suggested the maps would be studied by residents. He added, "I think half the people in town don't know how their homes are zoned. We have more heavy industrial land in the town than anywhere in the state."

Doherty estimated buying copies of the map in bulk would cost the town only eight to nine cents apiece.

Planner Edward A. Flanagan suggested placing copies of present zoning in the hands of residents might smooth the way for zoning changes proposed under the master plan.

"We will probably be in a lot better position to revise it (present zoning) if they know how the town is zoned now," Flanagan added.

On Doherty's recommendation, the board voted unanimously to ask the town clerk to stop selling copies of the 1971 map. The board also agreed to attend a June 12 meeting between the selectmen and boards concerned about the maps.

392 SENIORS TO RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT TMHS COMMENCEMENT JUNE 9

Diplomas were scheduled to be awarded to 392 seniors at Tewksbury Memorial High School's 38th commencement exercises June 9 at 10 a.m. at the high school stadium.

The ceremonies will begin with a procession march to the music of the high school band, after which the national anthem will be played.

The Rev. David Williams of Tewksbury Congregational Church, will give the invocation, and Rosan Rheault will give the salutatory.

After honor awards and scholarships are announced, the band will play "America the Beautiful." Then Karen Carceo, president of the class of 1973, will present her class's gift, and Standolyn Kerr, president of the class of 1974, will receive the gift.

A speech by valedictorian Karen Burns will mark one of the highlights of the ceremonies then. Following her speech, the band will play selections from the motion picture "Shaft."

Then H. Bailey Trull, chairman of the school committee, will present the diplomas to the seniors, after which the Rev. Patrick Hollywood, of St. William's Church, will give a benediction and

Auditor blames the Park Commission

Tewksbury Town Auditor Thomas J. Berube has denied he is responsible for a delay in paying park department employees. Berube said the park commission could have taken steps to insure all or most of its employees were paid, but instead tried to make it appear he was arbitrarily denying workers their salaries.

The auditor was speaking in response to criticisms levelled on him by park Cmrs. John Leslie and Frank A. Antonelli, chairman of the selectmen.

Leslie complained at a May 29 selectmen's meeting that Berube refused to pay any employees in the park department because of a dispute over a salary set by his commission and the finance committee for attendant Ernest Lightfoot. Antonelli was critical of Berube for taking the action, and Berube's not explaining his reasons to the selectmen.

Berube said he was following the will of the voters in refusing to pay Lightfoot $8,885 a year instead of the $7,753 approved by the town meeting. He added that at the town meeting voters and the finance committee specifically voted down a higher salary for Lightfoot.

Town Meeting will be asked Old Masonic Hall on School property?

The Tewksbury historical commission will seek town meeting approval June 25 to locate the old Kittredge - Gray House on school department land, according to Chairman Maureen Kelly.

Meanwhile, the Wamesit Lodge, A1 & AM, is negotiating a lease with the Mobile Oil Co. which would allow a gas station on the present Tewksbury Center triangle, which is owned by the masons.

The triangle is the site of the present masonic temple, the 160-year-old Kittredge - Gray House and a dilapidated, unoccupied building. The lodge has offered the historic house to the town provided it is moved off the triangle.

At a June 4 meeting of the historical commission members voted 3-0 to place an article on the town warrant. The article would ask for money to move the house from its present site and locate it elsewhere on a new foundation. Attending the meeting were Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Norma Heider and Mrs. Maureen Maillet.

Members agreed to seek bids from house moving firms as well as contractors' bids to build a new foundation for the structure, and the figures will be provided at the town meeting.

The commission will meet with the school committee June 13 to seek approval to locate the house on school land. Mrs. Kelly said one of the key questions will be who will control the building once located on school land.

An observer at the commission's meeting commented that the Foster School site would probably be too small for a modern school, and the school department would probably have little use for the land once the present school is demolished.

Mrs. Kelly told the commission Building Inspector William Granfield believes the building is moveable. "It is in fantastic shape. There is more dry rot in more homes I've seen built 10 years ago than there is there," Granfield said, according to Mrs. Kelly.

Mrs. Kelly has been in contact with the Masons, and reports the oil company probably won't begin work on any gas station in the center until at least four months from now.

"That is good as far as we are concerned," said Mrs. Kelly.

One of the most often recommended bits of advice concerning electrical equipment and wiring is to be extremely careful with household electrical circuits or equipment.

The National Safety Council notes that each year a growing number of persons are injured and killed through improper handling of the most common household electrical appliances.

On top of that property is often lost through the overloading of circuits and through faulty wiring. So if you need repairs or if outlets are inadequate, be sure to call someone who is qualified to do a proper wiring or electrical job.

Letter

Dear Mr. Neilson:
I just wanted to drop a note to your townpeople to let them know that a fine job the "Spotlighters" did in their presentation of "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

I thought that for a group of amateurs, a very professional job was done by all members of the group, especially considering the numerous hardships that were encountered by various halls for rehearsals and acoustical problems.

But Eddy did win a first place from the judges too, for his water color entitled "Mill Country".

Second place in popular vote went to Alan Nelson for his painting entitled "The Mill", and third place to Carolyn Ashe of Andover for her painting entitled "Sun Dappled Path".

The judges were Fred Stuart of Reading, Art Instructor in the Adult Education classes in Wilmington High School, Anne Ballou of Wilmington and Peg Stetson.

In Water Colors, after the First to Alan John Eddy, the Second went to Norma A. Gammon of Andover and Third Prize to George Webster of 52 Andover Street, Wilmington. Honorable Mentions went to Evelyn Anderson and Roberta Threshar, both of Wilmington.

Robert J. Cuoco of Wilmington took first place in modern art. Mr. Webster took first place in Mixed

ONE OF PAT GATELY'S: Paintings, but not one the one that won the prize is entitled "Serenity".

ANNE BALLOU CHOSEN FOR GRAPHICS SHOW

Anne Ballou, 190 Middlesex Avenue Wilmington is one of the five print-makers selected for the Graphics Competition exhibition now at the Cambridge Art Association through June 20.

There are six large silk screen prints by Anne Ballou in the show, remarkable for their sensitive light toned colors. There is a mystical quality to her landscapes and to the groups of figures. Even the shape of some of the prints is a significant part of what the artist communicates.

Anne Ballou studied at Syracuse University and at Randolph Macon Women's College. She has had several solo exhibitions and has been awarded prizes at the New England Arts Festival, Plymouth Annual Art Exhibition and in many other shows. Her work is owned by the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the First National Bank and by many private collections.

The gallery of the Cambridge Art Association is open Tuesday through Friday 10:30 - 5, Sunday 2 - 6. Admission is free.

PARK COMMISSION TO SEEK FUNDS FOR YOUTH CENTER

The Tewksbury park commission is expected to seek funds to supply utilities and make minor repairs and alterations for the youth center at the special town meeting June 25.

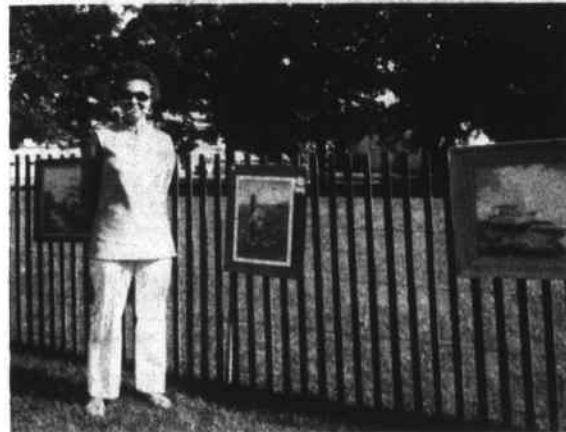

Park Cmsr. John Leslie explains that under Town Counsel Charles J. Zaroulis' recent ruling, the park commission is responsible for maintenance of the building, although the center's organization and programs will be administered by the recreation commission.

That means his group has the responsibility over the physical plant, although the March town meeting appropriated no funds for such a purpose.

Leslie said this group will also place articles on the town warrant to remove or remove and replace the town's flagpole in Tewksbury center. The pole was recently determined to be seriously rotten and in possible danger of being blown over.

TWO FINE PAINTINGS: By Judith Dadek of Dracut, an invalid who has to remain in a wheel chair, and is crippled almost beyond imagination. These two paintings are entitled "Scratch Board No. 1" and "Scratch Board No. 2" and both won awards.

IRENE ELWELL: And her paintings. She received a Special Award.

THE RELUCTANT EXHIBITOR: Mark O'Keane of Chapman Avenue, with three paintings, done in 1971, 1972 and 1973. They were entered by friends. Mark says he will exhibit next year, now that the ice is broken. He is 16 years old.

Atomic Energy lecture at Wilmington High

A demonstration lecture on atomic energy and its uses, sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission, is to be presented at Wilmington High School on Tuesday, June 12th.

The program, titled "This Atomic World," is designed to acquaint students with the basic principles of nuclear energy, its sources, and its role in agriculture, industry, medicine and research. The grant for conducting this lecture-demonstration program among high schools in Mass. was awarded to Wentworth College of Technology by Boston Edison Company.

Christopher Buckley, lecturer-demonstrator from Wentworth College staff, will present the assembly program which explains in student terms the structure of atoms and the operation of nuclear reactors as well as such concepts as radiation, fission and fusion. Mr. Buckley has completed extensive training at Oak Ridge, Tenn., facilities of the Atomic Energy Commission. He holds a bachelor of science degree in Management Engineering Technology from Wentworth College of Technology. Specially designed electronic equipment is used during the 40-minute program to demonstrate the sources of radiation, how nuclear energy is harnessed to furnish electric power for cities, and the use of radioisotopes to aid in diagnosis and treatment of diseases and to learn more about life processes.

Bits & Pieces

Hugh Wiberg of Andover St., Wilmington, author of "Backyard Vegetable Gardening for the Beginner" will be the subject of a half hour interview on the "WBZ Countryside" program (radio) on Sunday morning, June 10th at 7:05. The program is conducted by the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture, Comm. Nathan Chandler hosting.

Way back many years ago Herbert Barrows, who was the chairman of the Wilmington Finance Committee, used to growl that the thing to do was buy the Wilmington Police Department an Army Tank, and see if the cops could smash that up. Of course the town never did.

But, in case the reader is interested, the latest police cruiser for the Wilmington cops is now in the garage getting a face lift and a new radiator, and this with only 750 miles on the speedometer.

The policeman, who shall be nameless was speeding to the liquor store, at Lucci's, about 7:30 am last Thursday. The burglar alarm was ringing, accidentally - and how was he to know it was a false alarm?

Some clown who was trying to dodge the red lights at the corner of Woburn and Lowell Streets cut across the parking - and wham! Yep, and only 750 miles.

Robert J. Perkins of 8 Charlotte Rd., Wilmington has been awarded an Evening School Certificate Credit card for completing a 24-week course at Wentworth Institute Evening School in Boston. Mr. Perkins studied Plan Reading & Estimating B.

Mrs. Barbara DelRossi of Woburn St., Wilmington will observe her birthday on June 15th and Clesson Downs of Shawheen St., Tewksbury will celebrate his on Flag Day (June 14th).

Is there a Cole in your family tree?

The Cole Family Association, Box 567, Boothbay Harbor, Maine 04538 is planning a meeting of all Cole descendants, on July 8th at 2 pm at the York United Methodist Church, Route 1A, York Village, Maine. The president is Mrs. George B. Freeman, Box 567, Boothbay Harbor, Maine 04538. The Cole Family Association is seeking the help of anyone who has information about any Cole, or Cole descendants, living or dead. Mrs. Freeman says the information that can be provided today will be very important to those descendants who will be interested in their families.

IT IS EASY TO SEE: That Pat Gately won an award, by the glister in her eyes, but it is difficult to guess that George Webster was a First Prize Winner. He looks rather glum for a man who has just won several prizes.

The Kevin Nolan Scholarship Fund Revue, presented last Saturday evening at the High School played to a "standing room only" audience. An approximate $1300 was realized.

Included in the Memorial Day Parade in Tewksbury were: Grand Marshall: Commander VFW Post 8164, Chief of Staff; Commander DAV Chapter 110, and Chief Aide; Commander American Legion. In the First Division were: Police Color Guard, Police Dept., Fire Dept., Board of Selectmen, High School Band, Grand Marshall and Staff, VFW Color Guard, VFW Firing Squad, VFW Post and Auxiliary, DAV Chapter and Auxiliary, Veterans Units, Marchers, and Veterans Units, Non Marchers.

In the second division were the Knights of Columbus, Columbian Squires, Orbiteers Band, Tewksbury Hospital Practical Nurses, Camp Fire Girls, Cornets Band. The third division included the Spartan Senior Band, St. Williams Drill Team, Girl Scouts Brownies and the Dracut-Lowell Militia Band. The Fourth division had the Trojans Band, Boy Scout Units, 4-H Club Units, 4-H Club Horses, Fire Truck and CD Truck.

Betty Spahl is having a war, of sorts, with a friendly racoon. The Woburn Street lady, who sort of has Avco for a front door neighbor, has a super-friendly racoon who comes to the back door, and then retreats to the bushes when Betty opens the door, only to repeat its performance.

Betty apparently doesn't believe in "friendly" racoons. She called Joe Balestrieri, the Wilmington Dog Officer, who is now also the Racoon Officer.

Joe has been called a lot of things, but never before has he been called a Racoon Officer.

Ken Wilson of Andover Street, Wilmington is a well known organist, who has performed on more than one occasion in local churches. For many years he was with a Boston radio station, and used to occasionally pull a corny joke about shining up the old brass gun in the Wilmington (Wildwood) Cemetery.

Now for several years Ken has been the organist-in-residence at the Hammond Castle, overlooking Gloucester Harbor, built by the late John Hays Hammond Jr. Hammond collected medieval and ancient art treasures and built the castle to hold his collection and the great 10,000 pipe organ which Ken plays for visiting audiences. The castle now belongs to the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Boston.

There are daily tours through the castle, and groups may do so at a special rate, with advanced reservations.

Ken is scheduled to play a Salute to Gloucester on June 30th, at the time that Gloucester celebrates its 350th anniversary. He has composed special music for the occasion. It promises to be quite a program.

Mrs. Jean Foley of Wilmington will be assistant director at Camp

Merry-meeting, the Girl Scout Day camp for this area. Mrs. Chester Stanhope of Atkinson, N.H. will return as director with several Wilmington women serving on the staff: Mrs. Robert Chester, Mrs. William Frost and Mrs. Joseph Hartka.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Balcom of West St., Wilmington recently returned home from an enjoyable vacation in Florida.

Paul Hanley, 13 of 5 Vernon St., Tewksbury recently caught a 18 1/4" Bass at Silver Lake.

"The Art of Breast feeding and Overcoming Difficulties, the second in a continuing series of four discussion meetings sponsored by the Reading-North Reading Group of La Leche League will be held on Monday, June 11th at 8 pm in the home of Mrs. Grodon Webb, 33 Lakeside Blvd., No. Reading.

All women from any town who are interested are invited to attend. Infants are always welcome. For information call Mrs. Webb at 664-3780.

The general body meeting of the Cardinals of Wilmington (Crusaders) and Crusader Juniors boosters club will take place Thursday June 7th (tonight) at 8 pm at VFW Hall, Main St., Wilmington.

Know what a ship's bell sounds like - the one that keeps time, that is? It changes and repeats every four hours.

The Alexander Marr family of Pineridge Road was given a Ship's Bell clock on their 30th anniversary. Now, in the dark of the night, they can awaken when the clock goes bing-bing, bing-bing, bing and wonder what time it is - half-past ten, half-past two, or half-past six, or what? Time to get up?

Mr. and John Foye of West St., returned home last week after spending a brief vacation in Newport, Vt.

Mrs. Dot Peters of Grant St., Wilmington is currently a patient at St. John's Hospital. Mrs. Peters has served as Wilmington's Assistant Accountant for the past 13 years.

HEAD START DEADLINE JUNE 15

The deadline for applying for membership in Wilmington's Head Start Program is Friday, June 15th.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE TO DISCUSS REDISTRICTING

The Wilmington School Committee will hold its regular meeting on Thursday evening, June 7th (tonight) at 8 pm. The meeting will be held in the School Committee conference room, 159 Church Street.

At the meeting the Committee will receive a report from the elementary report card committee, and they will discuss a redistricting plan for the elementary schools for the 1973-74 school year. The Committee will also award bids for lumber supplies, file cabinets, band uniforms and an accounting machine. In other business, the Committee will appoint new teachers for the 1973-74 year, and will receive a Project S.E.E.M. proposal for granting non-differentiated diplomas.

Was Navy Corpsman Health director stresses service to people

by Bob Morris

Tewksbury's new health director, William R. McMenimen, is a friendly, soft spoken individual who feels his prime goal in the town will be to serve the people to the best of his ability.

McMenimen plans to prepare a carefully organized town health program with an emphasis on preventative steps to avoid health problems. His main duties, he points out, will be inspecting sewage systems and insuring that town restaurants are run in a modern, sanitary manner, although he plans to look into all matters that concern public health in the town.

The 48-year-old Cambridge native admits that he doesn't want to take a hard nosed attitude in dealing with contractors and restaurant owners, but instead plans to work quietly and firmly to insure townspeople get proper sanitary facilities.

Instead of immediately threatening a restaurant owner with court action over a minor problem, for example, McMenimen will politely notify the manager of a violation, perhaps talk with him if immediate action isn't taken, and finally, if he still isn't satisfied with the manager's actions, take legal steps against the restaurant.

Plans meetings
McMenimen plans to implement the latest techniques in solving sewerage problems in the town, and will meet with contractors in the town to exchange ideas on the best ways they can cooperate in insuring residents get the most efficient septic systems. He plans to license all firms installing such systems and all of those pumping waste from cesspools.

That personal touch in dealing with individuals is perhaps as much a part of McMenimen's background as his personality. After he was graduated from Ringe Technical High School in Cambridge in 1942, he immediately joined the Navy and began 20 years of service as a corpsman.

Talking about those 20 years, McMenimen's pale blue sailor's eyes sparkle. He speaks in the soft voice of a man who spent two decades listening to and encouraging men in pain or misery. It would be difficult to find a man who appeared more sincere when he said, "In my job I help people, and I think that is the greatest satisfaction you can get."

Earned bronze star
More than once during his years as a corpsman, McMenimen went out on a limb to help an injured or wounded man. He earned a bronze star serving with combat units of the 4th Marine Division during the invasions of Saipan, Tinian and Iwo Jima, where he was too busy caring for wounded men to notice the famous flag raising.

After World War
McMenimen served as a surgical technician at naval hospitals throughout the United States, including one in Chelsea. He also was an instructor at the Navy's boot camp at Great Lakes, Mich., and served on ships that visited Korean waters, northern Japan, England, France, Spain, Gibraltar and China. He was one of the few sailors who went through both the Suez and Panama canals.

McMenimen admits, "Because of my navy training, I think I have administrative and organizational abilities that would give me advantages over other men with the same qualifications and time in the field."

Stresses experience
He explained that a corpsman is concerned with every aspect of medicine and environmental health. Added to qualifications in that capacity and those he has earned after he left the service, McMenimen stressed the organizational talents he gained when, as a Corpsman First Class, he directed large numbers of other medical personnel.

After McMenimen retired from the navy, he wanted to continue in work that would allow him to utilize the skills he picked up in the service. Studying medicine was out of the question. He was 38 years old, and had a wife and seven children to support. That made eight years of training as a doctor beyond his means.

Returning to Boston, McMenimen met a few former service buddies who were now involved in public health work. He liked what they told him about their duties, so he began studying nights to become a registered sanitarian (R.S.) at Massachusetts Institute of Technology while working a series of part-time jobs.

Is registered sanitarian
McMenimen now has his R.S. He also has behind him three years of studying food technology at M.I.T. and further studies at North Shore Community College and other schools. Right now he is studying surveying at Essex Agricultural School.

While studying at M.I.T., McMenimen worked at Massachusetts General Hospital and the Melrose-Wakefield

Hospital as a medical technician. Later he worked as a part-time and later a full-time health agent in North Reading, worked in Newton's Concentrated Code Enforcement Program and finally spent five years as the senior sanitary inspector in Peabody before taking the Tewksbury post.

During those years, McMenimen grew interested in an organization of sanitarians that later expanded into the Massachusetts Environmental Health Association. He is now president of the organization, which includes 250 sanitarians and other persons concerned with environmental health.

McMenimen plans to continue residing in North Reading, where he and his wife Mary have a home at 290 Haverhill St. They have five girls and two boys ranging in ages from 13 to 22 years, and one of his older daughters recently presented him with two grandchildren.

He appears a welcome addition to Tewksbury's growing number of public employees, and a man who truly believes in serving the public.

EARNED RECOGNITION: Tewksbury LWV President Kim Gardner recently presented Chris Noyes, left, a gift in recognition of her service to the league. She recently resigned from the league's executive board after six years of service there.

TEWKSBURY LWV HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the League of Women Voters of Tewksbury was held on May 30 at the Holiday Inn in Tewksbury. The affair was conducted for both business and social purposes, with Mrs. John Gardner, president of the league, presiding. The numerous activities of the league over the past year were noted and the format for next year's activities was announced.

In 1973-74 the Tewksbury league will conduct intensive study on the following topics: schools, the aged, recreation and the Master Plan. Following the studies, the league will propose action for consideration by its members.

The league will also cooperate on projects of interest to the state and national organization. Serving as officers for the Tewksbury League in 1973-74 will be Mrs. John Gardner, president, Mrs. Thomas Nezwik, first vice president, Mrs. John Marsan, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Sprague, secretary and Mrs. Charles Whittemore, treasurer.

All women of voting age are urged to contact the Membership Chairman Mrs. Thomas Nezwik 851-4434 on how they can participate in the activities of the league. All activities for the league are proposed by league members and new suggestions from new members are given the utmost consideration before being voted upon for possible inclusion in the league calendar of events.

JAYCEES INSTALL TEWKSBURY OFFICERS

The Tewksbury Jaycees have held their Awards and Installation Banquet at the Holiday Inn on Main Street. The annual event provides the Jaycees and Jayceettes with an opportunity to honor outstanding members of the past year and to install officers who will manage the organizations during the next twelve months.

The highlight of the evening was the installation of the President James Pollard and the board of directors for 1973-74. The new board is composed of Internal Vice President Peter Dunlop, External Vice President William Thompson, secretary Arthur MacAuley, Treasurer Lloyd Ericson, state director Arthur Clark, and directors Joseph Sousa, Edward Turowsky and Raymond Zambuto.

The Jayceettes have elected as President Diane Dunlop, vice president Karen Collins, secretary Nancy Thompson, treasurer Diane Healey and director Jean Metcalf.

Prior to the installation of officers, Jaycee and Jayceette awards were presented to members who had made outstanding contributions during the year.

Lloyd Ericson was named Jaycee of the Year, the highest honor which the local chapter can bestow. Ericson, who joined the Jaycees in 1972, served as membership chairman this past year. Also, he served as chairman of the very successful community attitude survey, and participated actively in numerous other projects.

The Jayceette of the Year award was presented to Diane Dunlop in recognition of her tireless efforts in motivating Jayceette activities. The Jaycee President's Award went to Edward Turowsky. Ken Man Awards were made to James Pollard and William Thompson.

The installation of the Jaycee Board of Directors was made by State Vice President Neil Teachout, who earlier in the evening spoke to the assembly on the relationship of his office to the local chapter.

Pollard was sworn in by outgoing President Darrell Fernald. Fernald, earlier this month was elected external administrative U.S.J.C. director by the Massachusetts Jaycees at their state convention in Chicopee.

Crotty and William J. DeGregorio. Also the school committee, including Trull, Dr. Joseph W. Lipchitz, James E. Sullivan, Thomas L. Nawn and Edward L. Irwin.

Ushers for the event will be Nancy Ashe, Esther Campo, Stephen Martin and Michael Ryan. Gary Simpson will be the class marshal.

STOVE FIRE CAUSES HEAVY SMOKE DAMAGE

A stove fire at 20 Revere St., Tewksbury, reportedly caused heavy smoke damage May 31 before firefighters from engines 1 and 2 extinguished the blaze.

Mrs. Anthony Taylor reported heavy smoke drove her and her family from her home, and she couldn't reach the telephone to report the fire. She said she asked her newsboy, David Byers, to telephone for the firefighters.

Masons From Page One

When the Masons first offered the Federalist period building to the town in April, the historical commission and other persons interested in preserving the building feared it might be torn down within a few months.

The commission would like the house to be relocated to school department land between the Foster School and Water Department garage, but is also considering land on the North Street School and Senior Citizens' Center grounds.

Leonel V. Porter, chairman of the Masons' building committee, says negotiations concerning the lease may take months. If a satisfactory lease is negotiated, he says, construction on a Victor Drive lodge will definitely be approved.

Porter says a more detailed report of the lodge's plans for a new headquarters will be made public shortly after signing of the lease is announced.

Town Counsel Charles J. Zaroulis has said relocation of the house to school department land would require approval by both the school committee and a town meeting. The committee and Supt. John N. Wynn, on learning of Zaroulis' opinion, indicated support for the historical commission's plan.

The commission will meet with the school committee June 13 to seek approval to locate the house on school land. Mrs. Kelly said one of the key questions will be who will control the building once located on school land.

An observer at the commission's meeting commented that the Foster School site would probably be too small for a modern school, and the school department would probably have little use for the land once the present school is demolished.

Mrs. Kelly told the commission Building Inspector William Granfield believes the building is moveable. "It is in fantastic shape. There is more dry rot in more homes I've seen built 10 years ago than there is there," Granfield said, according to Mrs. Kelly.

JAYCEES SWORN IN: James Pollard, left, was sworn in as president of the Tewksbury Jaycees recently by outgoing president Darrell Fernald.

WILMINGTON STUDENTS HONORED AT SHAWSHEEN TECH

Several Wilmington students, members of the 1973 graduating class at Shawsheen Valley Technical High School received savings bond awards for outstanding contributions in shop, lab and other areas of the voc-ed school. The awards were made at Sunday's commencement exercise,

AIRCRAFT TO SPRAY MOSQUITOS IN TEWKSBURY

Aircraft will begin spraying major mosquito infested areas in Tewksbury by June 15, the health board has unanimously agreed. Members also agreed the spraying will be aimed at killing adult mosquitoes instead larvae.

The board voted to spend $3000 to $3500 to pay for the aerial spraying by Dyon Aviation. It will be the second time this year aircraft have been used against mosquitoes.

The first spraying cost the town $2600. The board hasn't come to a firm determination how the remaining $3400-$3900 would be spent, a spokesman for the town ecology committee questioned whether spraying to kill adult mosquitoes was effective, as a new cycle of mosquitoes is regenerated every 10 days. He recommended antilarvae steps be taken.

Chairman Everett F. Penney, Jr., said last year many persons complained about mosquitoes, but before they made their complaints they didn't warn the board where major mosquito problems existed. Penney called for residents to report such areas, and a dozen persons concerned about the problem provided the board information on breeding grounds at the meeting.

The board accepted a list of recommendations from the ecology committee, but Penney said it was too late in the year to implement most of the recommendations.

Penney said he hoped the town would join a proposed mosquito district of surrounding towns next year, but warned it would be several years before the district would really be effective. He said the first year of operations would concentrate on getting equipment, and for a few years after that the district would be building an efficient organization.

During the initial years of the district, Penney advised, the town might have to contribute to the district and also provide funds for local mosquito control. The board appointed Raymond Wilson as animal inspector. Robert Ryan, who previously held the post, notified the board of his resignation.

Board member Charles Caldwell notified the board the trustees of Tewksbury Hospital refused by a 3-3 vote to give the town land off Pinnacle Street for a raw sewage disposal area. Caldwell said he would attend the trustees' next meeting and ask them to reconsider the vote.

Penney commented that if the trustees didn't reverse their action, the town might have only one step to solve its cesspool waste disposal problem, for which the facility was planned. That step, he said, would be to ask the state to declare a health emergency in the town and get state aid to solve the problem.

On the recommendation of Health Director William R. McMenimen, the board voted to extend the deadline for tests to determine ground water elevations to June 16 instead of April 30. McMenimen said the wet spring guaranteed water elevations would be as high now as they normally are April 30, and described the normal cutoff date as too arbitrary.

The director advised the board make a provision in the future for variances from the April 30 deadline.

MTEHODISTS PLAN BARBECUE

A barbecue will be held Saturday, June 16, at the South Methodist Church at the corner of Main and South Streets in Tewksbury.

The event will start from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Handmade items and homemade food will be available, and the Clan MacPherson Pipes will provide entertainment.

ARSON EVIDENCE FOUND IN ABANDONED HOUSE FIRES

Youthful arsonists are suspected responsible for fires in two unoccupied Tewksbury buildings recently, with attempts made twice to put one of the structures to the torch.

An abandoned apartment building at the corner of Shawsheen Street and Foster Road was ignited May 31 at 4:48 p.m. and June 4 at 6:54 a.m. In both cases engines 1 and 2 were able to extinguish flames before a major fire erupted in the building, which is being torn down.

Patrolmen James Curseaden and Allan Stephens discovered an unoccupied home at 1438 Main Street afire while on routine patrol June 1 at 12:30 a.m. Engines 1 and 2 extinguished the blaze quickly.

The police determined that a rear porch door had apparently been punched open and a side window was smashed in the Main Street fire. A burning log found near a fireplace was believed to be the cause of the fire.

The Fire Department has warned youths in the town that they can be prosecuted in connection with such blazes. Many firefighters have expressed fears some supposedly unoccupied building may be set afire at a time when children or other persons might be inside. Several deaths throughout the state have been attributed to children who thought they were playing a prank by igniting buildings they believed vacant.

electrical items to the United States? Why do the Swedes spend $200,000 a year on Woburn Street - why do the Japanese and the Germans and the others also buy from Nova Devices?

It is a matter of sophistication, says Robert Peterson, who is the president of Nova Devices. There are no particular secrets, no patents that are inviolate. Nova Devices knows how to do it - how to make those chips. There is patience, and science, and sophistication. And those little integrated circuits are being bought just about everywhere in the world.

Nova Devices was formed four years ago by Peters and a Cuban named Modesto Madique, a Ph.D. out of M.I.T.

They got the idea for their product while they were working for another firm, and about the same time as four fellow employees got the idea that turned into Solid State Technology, in North Wilmington. Both firms split away, and both are located in Wilmington.

It is noteworthy that these two companies, Solid State Technology and Nova Devices are about the fastest growing firms in the area - in an area where there has been not much doing in the past few years. Both firms are constantly taking on new employees.

Two years ago Nova Devices had no employees. A year ago there were 70. Today there are 105. The number is constantly growing - and many of them live on Woburn Street, in Wilmington.

The chips that are made by the firm are used in many things involving complicated electric circuitry - not the stop-start, push-pull type of electric circuits, but those which are based on the more sophisticated type of mathematics, such as the powers of numbers.

The chips look, when finished, like a little milking stool, having six legs instead of three. They are tiny, or so tiny electrical circuits, with the principal element being a wafer with one free ion in it.

It is a fascinating business. And, while Nova Devices has no foreign competitors, there are other firms in this country, competitive, which are in the same business - most of them in California.

Those California firms are using hydrogen in one step in their manufacture. It is a vital step. The Wilmington firm wants to do the same thing - in fact it almost has to - it has to stay competitive. The Wilmington selectmen say no.

What is Nova Devices going to do?

Peterson is proud of a plant that has, in two years, expanded into 24,000 square feet. He had plans of doubling into 48,000 square feet in two more years - of taking eight acres of land in back of the plant and using it for parking.

Now - he isn't going to. He doesn't say he is going to move the plant from Wilmington, but, in a gentle way he says, he is thinking of it.

The Rev. George B. Taylor to serve Congregational Church

THE REV. AND MRS. TAYLOR: Talking with Bob and Nancy Pease of Federal Hill.

In the manner to which it has become accustomed during the past 240 years the Congregational Church of Wilmington chose a new pastor, during the past week.

Two hundred and forty years ago a committee was elected by the Town Meeting to choose a pastor for the new church, and after due deliberation a young Harvard graduate was named, the Rev. James Varney. He was elected unanimously on July 12, 1733.

Not quite 240 years later, on June 3, 1933, the Congregational Church again elected a minister - the Rev. George B. Taylor III. The vote was unanimous. The church bell was rung to announce the news.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor had been chosen after due study by a Pastoral Supply Committee, and he and Mrs. Taylor were introduced to the church members, and friends at a church dinner the evening before. He was introduced by Frank Tuttle, chairman of the committee. Other members of the committee were Hayward Bliss, Ruth Coursey, Vilma Merrill, Lois Miller, Anne Rounds and Paul Washburn, with Alternates being David Fraser and Pat Robbins.

The Rev. Taylor is perhaps the first Yale graduate to serve in the Wilmington pulpit. He received his B.A. from that university, and subsequently, in June 1971 a master's degree in Divinity.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor had been chosen after due study by a Pastoral Supply Committee, and he and Mrs. Taylor were in-

Cites voters' action
The auditor explained that although there is enough money in the park department's salary account to pay Lightfoot the higher figure, the town meeting specified what Lightfoot's salary and the salary of other workers would be. He maintained the commission hasn't the right to take money set aside for one type of employee to pay another type at a higher rate.

The commission, he added, believes it has the right to make such salary adjustments. Although the park commission has approved the higher figure, he explained, to his knowledge only the chairman of the personnel board agreed to the higher figure, and the finance committee never approved the higher salary for Lightfoot.

Eugene P. Smith, chairman of the personnel board, reported his group approved the raise for Lightfoot, and he hadn't acted on his own on the matter. He said he believed all pertinent town officials were notified of his board's decision, including Berube.

Leslie said since the meeting that he ment to refer to the personnel board as approving the raise for Lightfoot. He said the finance committee wasn't consulted on the matter.

Referring to the park commission, Berube said, "They have a moral obligation to follow the will of the town meeting."

Berube said the delay in paying all employees of the park department occurred as a result of the dispute over Lightfoot's salary. Initially, he explained, the commission approved a payroll that included the salaries of all members of the department, although Lightfoot's salary was listed at the higher rate.

Questions board's power
Berube said he sent the payroll back to Leslie May 25, four days before the salaries are normally presented to the selectmen for approval on the warrant. He said he told Leslie to draw a new payroll that listed Lightfoot as receiving the lower salary, and there was still time to have the redrawn salaries placed on the May 29 warrant. The auditor said he advised Leslie that the park commission and personnel board didn't have the authority to raise Lightfoot's salary above that approved by the town meeting.

Leslie told the selectmen May 29 what Berube told him, but expressed the commission's desire to have its original payroll approved.

Berube said the commission could have insured everyone in the department was paid by approving a payroll listing Lightfoot at the lower salary. All men but Lightfoot could have been paid, he added, if the commission submitted two payrolls to him, one for Lightfoot and one for the three part-time employees who constitute the rest of the department's staff.

Although Berube admitted he didn't specifically advise Leslie the two-payroll formula could have been taken to insure most of the men were paid, Berube said, "Anyone in that position should know what to do."

He added that he could have adjusted any payroll submitted by the commission to insure the part-time men were paid, but that was the commission's responsibility.

"I'll take the abuse," Berube said, "but the onus should be on the person who makes up that payroll."

Refutes
selectmen's charge

The auditor took special exception to Antonelli's suggestion Berube was trying to take over the power of the selectmen and other town boards. "That is the furthest thing from my mind," he said.

Berube said many of the difficulties that have arisen between various town boards and him were caused by the boards' not consulting him before they took steps that altered accounts he administered. As an example, he said the selectmen recently notified him they were abolishing the part-time dog officer's position. Later, he said, they notified him they were adding the part-time officer's salary to that of the full-time man's.

The auditor explained that the personnel bylaw set one salary for a full-time dog officer, another for a part-time man. He said more than a vote of the selectmen was needed to give the full-time man the added money, and questioned whether one man could legally hold both posts.

Town selectmen, he said, never asked him what those steps were. If they did, he would gladly provide them information on the matter, Berube added.

The park commission has since submitted vouchers separating Lightfoot's salary from that of other department employees. Only Lightfoot apparently won't receive his salary until the dispute is settled.

Berube's comments on whether one man could hold two town jobs appeared to be complicated by past town practices, which may or may not have been legal.

Among the part-time jobs recently replaced by a full time health agent was that of the animal inspector's. Robert Ryan held the inspector's post for two years while at the same time working as the town's full-time dog officer, a post which is under the selectmen's control.

Middlesex Canal Restoration to be Bi-Centennial Landmark

The project of a bridge over the Boston & Main railroad, near Rocco's Restaurant, which has been sponsored by Rep. Fred Cain, is now under bid by the Massachusetts Department of Public Works.

The DPW Commissioner, Bruce Campbell, has thanked Rep. Cain and former U.S. Senator Leverett Saltonstall for their part in expediting the project. According to Mr. Campbell the two men have saved at least two years in the implementation of the project.

Part of the project calls for the restoration of the old Middlesex Canal, which ran the length of Wilmington between Charlestown and Lowell, from 1800 to about 1836. The canal has since been designated an Engineering Landmark. The portion of the canal to be restored will be on both sides of the new bridge running for about half a mile, north and south. About 200 feet south of the new bridge will be dredged, and a further distance north, to restore the canal, and it is said it will extend north to or towards Lubbers Brook.

The restoration of the canal is the result of the appearance of Professor Adams of MIT at the Public Hearing on the bridge, in the Wilmington Public Library.

Commissioner Campbell has been quoted as saying that the project has been designated a "1976 Bi-Centennial Landmark".

The estimated cost of the bridge is $1,100,000, and the completion date has been set for November 1974.

Sign applicants bombard
Tewksbury appeals board

Tewksbury's new get tough policy toward enforcing the sign bylaw has brought a small avalanche of applications for special permits to allow free standing signs for businesses. At a recent board meeting seven of 10 ten hearings held dealt with applications to allow signs, but no decisions were made at the meeting.

A spokesman for Tewksbury Funeral Home at 975 Main St. said his firm didn't understand that when the bylaw was passed it effected established signs. He wanted a two foot by three foot sign on the home's lawn.

Applications for special permits for signs were also requested by Valley Real Estate at 2136 Main St., Humble Oil & Refining Co. at 1794 Main St., Kimball System Inc. at 353 Main St., Sun Oil Co. at 2115 Main Street, Hank & Rita's Hardware at 2253 Main Street, and Gas Land at 2115 Main Street.

Michael W. Burke sought a variance to build an addition on his home at 28 St. Mary's Road. Daniel F. Fisher wanted a variance to build a one family home on a lot near 189 River Road.

Robert Martel asked for a variance to allow a single family dwelling between 32 Highland Avenue and 44 Woburn Street.

THE CARDINALS ARE IN FIRST PLACE

The Cardinals are in first place, in Class A, Mayflower Drum Corps. They took first place at Russell Field, in Cambridge, last Saturday.

The Cardinals are a new drum corps - and yet an old and familiar one. The Wilmington Crusaders and the Beverly Cardinals have combined forces, and now have a drum and bugle corps of 120 boys and girls.

It has been rough for them, putting together new routines and keeping up with their studies in school.

Great things seem to be in store for the new drum and bugle corps this summer - with competitions in Connecticut, Maine, Vermont scheduled, and a week long trip to Pennsylvania and Ohio, with stop over competitions along the way.

Finishing in second place at Russell Field last Sunday were the Muchachos of Manchester, N.H. and in third place was the 5th Regimentals, of Portland, Maine.

NOW THE CARDINALS: The former Wilmington Crusaders, marching through Wilmington Square on Memorial Day.

Pineridge road celebrates a graduation

1973 marks the 100th anniversary of the first graduation of Wilmington High School. It also marks the first time that a lady of 30 summers has been in the graduating class.

Donna DeBenedictis is the lady in perhaps one of a dozen families on that street who have been gathering from time to time, each summer, to share in cookouts.

It was perhaps at one of those cookouts, two years ago, that the lady decided to return to High School. She had two years only - in New Hampshire. Her friends were urging her to return.

Donna did. She studied - the business course - for two years, in Wilmington High School. Sunday she put on a cap and gown and was one of 287 students to march onto the field to receive a diploma.

Of course Pineridge Road wouldn't miss such an occasion. That called for a cookout and there was one - the day before. The ladies got together and decided it - Florence Wawrzynski, Barbara Cook - all had a part in the celebration.

It wasn't a surprise for Donna, but it was a wonderful time.

KNIFE WEILDING MEN ROB TEWKSBURY GAS STATION

Two men armed with a knife robbed a woman employee of Gas Land on Main Street in Tewksbury of more than $260 June 2 at 10 p.m.

The woman told Ptl. G. Kenneth Hague the heavier of the men came into her office, went directly to her desk and showed her away from it while he took more than $200 from a drawer. Then, according to the woman, the man said there wasn't enough money in the drawer and took her billfold, which he held $60.

The two men escaped on foot behind the station, and the Wilmington Police K-9 unit was used to trace the men's trail to a point between two nearby businesses. Two witnesses later said they saw men answering the description the robbed woman gave of the men. The two men, they said, were dropped off a dark Mustang automobile and were last seen walking between the businesses the dogs traced them to.

One robber was described as tall, thin, with a white knit shirt and light colored pants, and weighing about 115 pounds.

The other man was described as 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 200 pounds, having what appeared to be short brown hair, and wearing a dark colored jacket and dark pants.

In 1938, the American Legion established a cooperative plan with the American Red Cross to help in a unified program for disaster relief.

Under the direction of a national committee, each post appoints a liaison officer to contact the local Red Cross chapter to formulate a plan. The activity units of the Legion include rescue work, transportation, medical aid, and helping with supplies.

Isn't it good that we can claim such institutions really to help when help is needed?

Over $800 has been received by the Rev. Robert Smith, pastor of the Upper Alton Baptist Church in Alton, Illinois from Wilmington residents who seek to assist needy persons displaced by the recent Mississippi River floods.

The Rev. Mr. Smith is the former pastor of the First Baptist Church in Wilmington.

The largest contribution was from the Wilmington Rotary Club, and there were many contributions from individuals.

Mr. Smith reports that the money, together with Salvation Army money has helped over 200 families from West Alton, during the 52 day flood period, together with sixty families from the nearby community of Piassa Creek.

Donations to families consisted of clothing, food, cots, bedding, first aid kits, mosquito spray, bottled gas and soap.

Bloodmobile at K of C June 19

BLOODMOBILE AT K OF C
JUNE 19

Tewksbury's first bloodmobile for "total town coverage" by the American Red Cross will be held at the K of C Hall, Main St., Tewksbury, June 19 from 2 to 7:45 pm.

As always, the donation of one pint of blood guarantees free and unlimited blood coverage for the donor's spouse, children, parents and grandparents, and parents and grandparents of his spouse for one year anywhere in the U.S. or Canada.

In addition, with this new concept of "town coverage," all Tewksbury residents will receive all the blood required by them at any hospital if the town's quota of 700 pints is met. Hopefully it will be collected in three bloodmobile visits. For those who have already donated within eight weeks of June 19, there will be another bloodmobile in September.

In order to assure prompt service June 19, prospective donors are asked to call Jean Russell White, now, at 658-6925 for an appointment. Free babysitting service will be provided at the hall, and transportation will also be available.

Many volunteers as well as donors are needed to insure the success of this townwide venture. These include typists, registrars, temperature takers (preferably nurses or student nurses), canteen workers, donor walkers, babysitters, drivers, etc.

Volunteer shifts are from 2 to 5 and from 5 to 8 pm. No experience with bloodmobiles is necessary. Volunteers are asked to call Marge Harrington at 851-9741 today.

Donors should be in good health, should have eaten a meal within four hours of a donation, should be between 18 and 66 years old, and over 110 pounds. Anyone wishing more information, or wanting to help out in any other way, such as contacting the neighbors on their streets to be donors, or telephoning a list of past donors in town should call Barbara Flanagan at 851-7580.
